

Fire marshal investigates Fears Hotel fire

BELLE GLADE — A fire that killed one man and hospitalized two more with smoke inhalation at Fears Hotel Sunday night was termed "suspicious" by the state fire marshal, according to Belle Glade Fire Department Inspector and Lieutenant, Jesse Womack.

Detective John Carney of the Belle Glade Police Department, the first to arrive on the scene, released the names of the dead man Monday, after contacting the next of kin of Carlos Otero, also known as Carlos Ortiz, 36, of Puerto Rico.

Hospitalized, and since released, at Glades Central for smoke inhalation were Twigg Phillips and Emillious Rosa, 39, upstairs occupants of the hotel.

Womack said the fire was largely contained in a stair well at the rear of the building and the fact there were no more deaths could be largely attributed to the owner, a bartender and patrons of Bell's Lounge, which was closing for the night at the time the fire broke out only a few minutes before midnight.

He said one of the patrons noticed the fire, alerted the others and went to find a phone to call the Fire Department.

In the meantime, Bell's owner E. T. "Pony" Phillips and bartender Bob Tibbles ran into the hotel and into the upstairs hallway, where they began banging on doors and waking up the sleeping people, although the hallway was already filled with smoke.

In the meantime, Carney drove by and noticed the flames leaping out of windows set in the stairway. Carney also began assisting people to the outside.

By the time the first team of firefighters, James Forrester and Pat Imbimbo, fought their way upstairs, they found two men laying on the floor near the front of the hallway. He said there had apparently made it out of his room, which was next to the flaming rear staircases, and gotten to the front of the building, almost to the front stairwell, before he succumbed to the smoke.

In the meantime, Rosa and another, unnamed occupant from the upstairs rooms made their way out the front door and Twigg Phillips climbed out a front window and made it to safety down a ladder thrown up by arriving firefighters.

Womack said the fire broke out in the rear stairwell but a closed door on the second floor was only barely burned through and the second floor hallway received only minor damage from the fire, which was under control 20 minutes after the call.

He said Merle Liverman, the officer in charge, and other firemen noticed an irritating odor in the air after the fire had been quenched, and called Womack, who summoned the fire marshal from Miami.

Mrs. Meadows draws support in controversy

PAHOKEE — Fresh fuel was added this week to personnel problems plaguing the Palm Beach County School Board as supporters rallied behind East Lake Middle School Principal Lillie Meadows, asking the board that she be given a three year continuing contract at her present post instead of being reassigned as an assistant principal as Rosenwald Elementary School in South Bay.

Mrs. Meadows, principal at East Lake for the past three years said she was up for a three year continuing contract. However, newly appointed West Area Superintendent Jack L. Redding did not recommend she be given a three year continuing contract.

Instead Redding recommended to Kenneth Schrimsher, assistant superintendent for personnel relations that Meadows be placed on annual contract for one more year.

In a letter, dated Feb. 28, to Mrs. Meadows, Redding said, "I feel that I need more time to fully evaluate your performance as principal. This is in no way a reflection upon your ability to manage East Lake School but rather a means by which I can more adequately monitor your performance."

Mrs. Meadows, who has since been assigned assistant principal of Rosenwald Elementary School for the school year 1980-81, said she was disheartened about not being recommended for a continuing contract as was members of her administrative teaching and non-teaching staff.

In a letter dated Mar. 5, Mrs. Meadows asked Schrimsher for assistance in the matter.

She told Schrimsher she had received a letter and had a conference with Redding on the matter.

"Should I be penalized because he (Redding) has been Area Superintendent for two months? Mr. H. W. Berryman never indicated to me that I was in danger of not receiving a three year contract. Should I believe that this is a case of discrimination," said Meadows.

After conferences with school superintendent Thomas Mills, Redding and Schrimsher, Mrs. Meadows said she was told her performance in the area of ground keeping was not satisfactory, and a three year contract would not be issued.

Angered over Supr. Redding's recommendation, parents and concerned citizens of the Glades went to town to gather support for Mrs. Meadows.

The Citizens for Honorable and Peaceful Solution, led by the Rev. O. W. West, Jr., pastor of the Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, confronted the school board members with the case Monday evening in West Palm Beach.

Rev. West, who handed over petitions with more than 1,000 signatures on behalf of Mrs. Meadows, was surrounded by approximately 50 supporters. Some carried posters saying "Tom Mills should serve all people not special interest groups" and "What's being done in the dark is coming to light."

Rev. West told the board, "We think there was terminated because she is black and female, there was no other reason you could pinpoint."

West also tossed a number of questions at the board members. "Why is this the second black principal to be harassed in the Glades," he asked. He also asked about the board's policy on evaluations.

Acting school board chairman Susan Pell said Monday night was the first time members had heard of the Meadows case. Mills said he was more than willing to meet later this week or early next week with the group.

"Nobody fired her, I was giving her a year to work at it."

"In April, I was notified by Mrs. Meadows' attorney that the principal was rejecting the one-year contract," Redding said.

"I did reject the one year contract but I accepted the appointment," said Meadows.

A 14 year employee of the school board, Mrs. Meadows has served nine years as administrator. She served six years as assistant principal of Belle Glade Elementary School before coming to East Lake School.

Mrs. Meadows said in an interview her evaluations for the past two years by Berryman were satisfactory.

In a satisfactory evaluation dated June 21, 1978, three points of instruction were given.

- Needs to interact more with Area Superintendent in relation to problems.

- Provide to find a more comprehensive staff development plan.

- Needs to get more involved in school/community advisory committee.

The same satisfactory evaluation by Berryman said Meadows:

- Indicated leadership ability in mending badly separated staff.

- Continued to update and modify organization and program changes for non-traditional 5-7 middle school.

- Utilizes staff for management activities which is very good.

Mrs. Meadows said in an interview her evaluations for the past two years by Berryman were satisfactory.

In an evaluation dated June 6, 1979, by Berryman it stressed:

- Needs to improve in the area of facilities management.

- Needs to provide communications to all staff members in relation to the multiple program offering at the school.

- Needs to plan and implement a public relations program through the utilization of all types of media.

The satisfactory evaluation also said Mrs. Meadows:

- Continued growth in personnel management and curriculum instruction.

- Continues to modify organization program changes to meet the requirements of the students.

- Established an orientation program for all new

BELLE GLADE — A study of water and sewer rates currently underway is only one of several steps being taken by the city to float a bond issue this fall to complete $6 million worth of repairs and improvements to the city's water and sewer system.

City commissioners were told during a workshop session Monday night by Bill Frey, of Leady, Corp., the city's financial advisors, explained the city should attempt to complete the steps necessary to sell the bonds before the fall because there is a good market now.

That would leave a 60-day period in which to complete several steps, including the establishment of a new water and sewer rate schedule, which Frey said should be in place no later than late July.

The completion of a resolution to sell the bonds, and an attempt to raise the city's credit rating from a BB rating to BBB, or even BBB+,

The city's consulting engineering firm, Briley, Wild and Associates, are now performing the study from which will come the new rate schedule.

One of the points of discussion Monday night was that the city should establish a minimum amount large users will be charged for their water, rather than simply charging so much per thousand gallons.

The new rate schedule will have to be completed, with enough of an increase to pay for the bonds, before City Attorney John Baker can complete the resolution to sell the bonds.

In the meantime, Frey said he is preparing a presentation for Standard and Poors in an attempt to bring the city's credit rating, which fell to BB in 1977, when one of the bond's company's currently holding bonds with the city requested a new credit rating.

The city's rating had been BB but the 1977 rating study revealed several problems the city was having, including a technical violation of not performing enough repair and rehabilitation.

Frey pointed out, however, that the city has corrected those problems and that should be considered favorably by Standard and Poors when he makes his presentation.

Frey said that if the city can increase its credit rating two steps, to BBB+, it would lower the interest rate the city would be charged for the bonds by as much as 1.5 to 2 percent.

However, he said the city probably won't be able to sell the bonds at a rate the city can

City Manager Robert Sanders said later the bonds will be issued in the amount of $6 million, but the city will take care of the work needed on the city's water and sewer systems and the interest payments.

In other discussion during the work session, the commission:

- Received assurances from Bill Drummond of Jones Interiors that cable television customers can expect to be getting better service during the summer.

Commissioners had said they would like to meet with Jones Interiors representative to discuss a number of complaints. Drummond said the company had completed repairs of about 2,000 feet of cable leaving the company's receiver. He said the cable had been had and its replacement should improve reception all over town.

On questioning, however, Drummond said power backup systems promised the city last summer still haven't been installed, a step which might have prevented some of the poor reception experienced over the Memorial Day week end.

Drummond also said the construction crew which has been doing a considerable amount of work over the past few weeks, installing new cables, and equipment, has been transferred temporarily to the Wellington area but they would be returning to complete their job.

Directed City Manager Robert Sanders to contact County Commissioner Bill Bailey's aide, David Goodlett to determine whether the county would be interested in a joint venture to build a bicycle path on SR715 from Southwest Avenue M (Sugar Subdivision) to SR715 Trailer Park.

The path, like one completed earlier on Airport Road, would be five feet wide and paved with asphalt on a rock bed.

In a related matter, South Bay Commissioner Ray Sullivan suggested during a meeting of the South Bay Commission Tuesday night that the county be contacted and asked to build a bicycle path from South Bay, along SR80 to SR715 and into Belle Glade, a job that would overlap the proposal being made by the Belle Glade Commission.

The Belle Glade proposal will cost an estimated $8,156.

Another proposed bike path, which would run east from Southwest Avenue L and SR80 to Dada Road, was postponed until a water main could be installed on SR80. The water main is part of the $6 million worth of work to be accomplished with the bond issue.

That bike path would include a part that would turn south at Tabit Road and back west on Southeast Avenue G to Zov Elementary School. An alternative plan would keep the entire path on Avenue G, avoiding SR80 until the path intersects Tabit Road.

Decided to let attrition take care of an attendance problem on the Citizens Planning and Advisory Committee (CPAC). Commissioners had expressed concern that several CPAC members hadn't been present at a number of meetings and Community Development Program Director Ben Harvorn submitted a report that indicated nine members have been absent a majority of the past 11 meetings.

Five of the nine members are due to be replaced next month and the commissioners said they would replace them at that time. In the meantime, Harvorn was directed to contact the other four members to determine whether they wish to continue on the committee, which acts in an advisory capacity for Community Development projects.

RR crossing closes

BELLE GLADE — Northwest Ninth Street between Canal Street North and Northwest Avenue L will be closed to the railroad, Sanders said, while the Florida East Coast railroad crossing there is repaired.

City Manager Robert Sanders said trucks will still have access to the packing houses from Canal Street North and the Ice Plant from Avenue L for the five working days, beginning Monday, but through traffic would be rerouted.

The crossing, approximately 600 feet south of Avenue L, will be completely rebuilt by the railroad, Sanders said. "The crossing is in extremely poor condition and we certainly will incur with the project."

Sanders said the city staff did suggest, and FEO agreed, to put signs at Canal Street North and Avenue L that the street would be closed to through traffic for the five workdays the project is estimated to take.

Five of the nine members are due to be replaced next month and the commissioners said they would replace them at that time. In the meantime, Harvorn was directed to contact the other four members to determine whether they wish to continue on the committee, which acts in an advisory capacity for Community Development projects.

Officer shoots youth

BELLE GLADE — Law enforcement officers braced themselves for a night of possible violence Tuesday after a city police officer shot a 17-year old youth.

Tuesday afternoon but the night was "even quieter than usual" according to one dispatcher.

A crowd of approximately 250 people had gathered to hear insults at officers following the 3:10 p.m. shooting of Alfred Rhamas, who will celebrate his 18th birthday Saturday with a fractured forearm and charges of aggravated assault and illegal exhibition of a deadly weapon hanging over his head.

Police Inspector Michael Miller said the only incident, however, was the smashing of a police car window two blocks from the scene. Miller said the crowd dispersed quickly once the police left the scene of 416 Southwest B Place, where the shooting occurred.

Miller said the incident was set up by a call to the police about a domestic disturbance and when Patrolmen Mark Kelso and Jim Sherrill responded, they found Rhamas and a 17-year old woman on the third floor balcony of the apartment building. By this time, a crowd had already begun forming.

The two officers ordered the three men to surrender but all three ran toward the back of the building. Kelso and Sherrill split up to chase the men around the building on the ground.

Kelso, Miller said, rounded the corner of the building to find Rhamas fleeing from him on the ground. He said Kelso ordered Rhamas to halt and Rhamas turned to face Kelso with a rifle in his hand. That's when Kelso shot Rhamas in the forearm.

Rhamas was taken to Glades General Hospital and then transferred to John F. Kennedy Hospital in Atlantis because he had a fractured forearm. Rhamas was listed this morning as "fairly well" at JKH.

Miller said Rhamas' rifle hadn't been recovered from the scene but noted there was a large crowd milling about the area and, "anyone could have picked it up." He added that three witnesses had overheard Rhamas tell his father that he had been arrested.

As of Wednesday morning, Miller said the two men with Rhamas hadn't been arrested, although detectives had been questioning one man late Tuesday night.

Immediately after the shooting, Miller, in the absence of Police Chief D. Bill Mathis, who was out of town, assigned investigation of the criminal charges to City Detective Bill Bullock and suspended Kelso with pay, standard procedure when an officer is involved in a shooting.

The shooting itself is being investigated by Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office Detectives Robert Donald and Ted Kay.

The importance and urgency with which Miller and other area law enforcement officers obviously attached to the shooting were indicated by the fact that within an hour afterward, the investigation had already begun.

Sheriff's Office Glades Substation commander, Capt. Frank Fogelman, and Assistant State's Attorney Michael Miller on hand at the city police station.

Police and Sheriff's Office men and cars were highly visible at least during the early evening hours but Miller noted this morning that the night had been quiet, with no incidents.

BY DEAN JONES

"Were you counted?" they ask.
"No, indeed," I answer, "and if I didn't already know the answer I'd have to ask, 'Why the hell not?'"

"The 1980 Census will be completed soon and every effort has been made to find and enumerate everyone," said W. Jeff Hindman, district manager of the Newnated States Department of Commerce Bureau of the Census. "I don't believe it," quoth I. "However," rattles on Mr. Hindman in his press release, "it is possible that someone might have been missed. The Census Bureau would like to make one last appeal, and is doing it via the only medium that could help - newspapers."

"As a public service," he said, "we are asking each newspaper to run this WERE YOU COUNTED? form on Sunday, June 1, or as soon thereafter as possible. "In the coming weeks," he winds up, putting the monkey on the back of the public mind of the Bureau of the Census where it rightfully belongs, "the unofficial preliminary population and housing counts for your nation area will be ready for release and we'll see that you get the figures just as soon as they become available."

Right.
Face it, people, counters.

You flubbed the dub. You dogged the boon and you flapped your doodle. More succinctly, you botched the job and you did a royal mess of it.

Not that we didn't see it coming from a mile away, along with anyone else with the sense God gave a billy-goat.

I don't know who was stupid enough to think they could make an accurate count of the population by mail and it doesn't really matter because, God knows, you had warnings you wouldn't get everybody. You wouldn't just miss the 90 percent you said you'd get, you'd have to count how many people you would miss.

And such were already located in said. You couldn't afford to go out and hire enumerators like censuses have been done in this country since 1790. Oh, no! that was too expensive anymore. You'd miss people because they were out working, you said and have to send somebody else out to do the job all over again.

So you hired the U.S. Postal Service to do the job. The Postal Service, for crying out loud, that can't even deliver its own payroll.

But this one you can't lay on the Postal Service. The letter carriers apparently did their job. It was the Bureau of the Census that screwed this one up. Was I counted? You can bet your 40-year old bronzed booties I wasn't counted and neither were 75 per cent of the rest of the people in this office.

That's for starters on who wasn't counted. Aside from quite a few John Q. Public types on the street who weren't counted, I can name a couple of city employees and a few employees of other newspapers who weren't counted.

But then if you read the newspapers, you'd know that because it's sure been in the news enough ever since April 1, when the census forms were supposed to be mailed back to the Bureau of the Census.

Have I been counted? Hell no, I haven't been counted and if it's as important as everyone says it is, I'm not at all sure I'd entrust my census form to you guys, considering the quintessential degree of inefficiency you've demonstrated so far this year.

That's if I'd received my census form in the first place, and I was eagerly awaiting my copy to come in the mail.

The word I had was that the Bureau was buying up every mailing list it could get its hands on to be sure nobody was going to be missed. Well, for crying out loud, if I can get the amount of junk mail I get making me offers to buy things I don't want and don't need, why didn't I receive a form?

I was eagerly awaiting the form, mainly because I was hoping I could get one of the long forms and I could play with someone's mind but the form never came so I had to forego my little fun and games. I can get unsolicited pornography catalogs, unsolicited credit cards and bills from stores I've never seen but I can't get a census form. And now you turn, as a last resort, to the newspapers you don't read and expect us to bail you out. You want the WERE YOU COUNTED forms run in English and Spanish because you couldn't get everyone counted. Well, if you think you've got a real problem with illegal aliens who don't want to be counted because they're afraid of being deported - or with Latinos who haven't mastered English, then you'd better think again.

There are still an untold number of us English-speaking types out here who are ready, willing and able to be counted if we can only get the attention of the people in charge of the accounting. But until I see the census form arrive in the mail, or an enumerator knocking on my door, my opinion will just continue to harden...that you couldn't find your own nose in count it without one or more fingers slipping inside for a pick.

It's hard to decide which of the two camps show the least amount of class, those American "patriots" described in "Wondrous Welcome", an editorial the Herald Observer ran on May 15, or the Cuban refugees who seem determined to make themselves unwelcome at Eglin Air Force Base, Fort Chaffee, et al.

The rock-throwers and arsonists at the refugee camps seem to have lost sight of the facts that they are guests in the United States at this point, that, strictly speaking, they're illegal guests, that there's good reason to believe there are a number of those among the refugees who may be undesirable or even agents provocateur and that while the vast majority of them will be confined temporarily in those refugee camps, they have just escaped from 21 years of a prison operated by warden Fidel Castro.

There is still no good reason to back off an inch from the stance taken in "Wondrous Welcome", which deplored the attitude that America should ship all these refugees back to Fidel; and attitude expressed in the old cliché, "The heck with you, Jack, I've got mine."

On the other hand, the refugees, once they're here, and the families who brought them here, should realize they have no inherent right to immigrate to the United States.

Immigration, and naturalization, is a privilege bestowed by the United States government. There is no carte blanche offering to refugees or other immigrants asking for political asylum or the privilege to reside temporarily or permanently in the United States.

There are, and should be, certain conditions attached to that privilege, including the most basic, that the immigrants shouldn't be undercover agents of a foreign government or undesirable sent here only to cause confusion, although not all people considered undesirable in Cuba would necessarily be undesirable here.

While that screening process is ongoing, the refugees should realize that the American government offered haven to only 3,500 originally and, as of last week, almost 100,000 had been brought into Key West in the boatlift.

We still believe this nation is large enough and strong enough to absorb 100,000 refugees, even in the few weeks of the Freedom Flotilla, but the large numbers involved will slow down the screening process.

In the meantime, it behooves the refugees to display a little more of the manners and decorum expected of guests in anybody's home and this would be as good a time as any to instill in the mind of these newcomers that there are laws in this nation against assault and arson.

A good lesson

To the credit of the residents of Belle Glade, a situation that was tense Tuesday night, and could have become explosive, ended in a night that was quieter than normal.

The situation, which was triggered by a complaint to local police officers of a domestic disturbance and ended in the shooting of a 17-year old man by a city police officer in sight of a growing crowd of 250 people, could have meant a night of violence but, fortunately didn't.

Fortune played a multiple role during the afternoon and night, beginning with the fact the man who was shot wasn't killed or seriously injured, although no one wants a broken arm in a cast on his 18th birthday.

The city was also fortunate that the crowd which gathered dispersed quickly and quietly and that there were no rabble rousers on the scene with the desire and ability to turn the unfortunate incident into a cause which could have meant more pain and destruction... either at the time of the incident or later that night.

And fortune also played a role immediately following the shooting and later during the evening in that Police Inspector Michael Miller quickly turned the investigation of the shooting over to the Sheriff's Department and took the proper actions which should follow an incident of this type, leaving no room for charges later of a whitewash.

Perhaps Belle Glade has a lesson or two for the more sophisticated and larger cities such as Miami where these lessons have apparently not been learned until it's been too late.

Viewpoint

Congratulations... To the Class of 1980

Can it be that the Class of 1980 has already graduated? To their parents, it seems like only yesterday that they were babies in diapers.

Graduation is one of life's major milestones. Graduates should consider graduation one of the top accomplishments they are likely to enjoy during their lifetime.

It is true that many students, for one reason or another, do not graduate. Some of the reasons are economic, some social, and some stem from attitude.

We are proud of all of the graduates of 1980. We respect your perseverance, your intelligence, and your coming of age as young adults.

The thrill of the moment when a student becomes a graduate is now but a warm memory to the Class of 1980.

"Where to next?" is the question many in the Class of 1980 may be asking themselves.

Where to indeed. For as wonderful as graduation is, it is merely a first step toward becoming a contributing member of society.

The hard work is not over; it is just beginning. A diploma is a slip of paper that will hopefully open a few doors. A diploma may help gain admission to a trade school, a college, or a job. But it never assured anyone of a life of leisure or ease.

For most of us, life is never easy. It can be challenging, rewarding, and meaningful.

In the 1980's, all of us are sure to be challenged and it is up to us to make the best of the situation.

Every generation faces its own distinct problems, however, and those which face the Class of 1980 are not necessarily more severe than those which faced prior graduating classes.

For one thing, we have peace — of a fashion — and no 1980 graduate faces the prospect of an unpopular war as during the 1950's or a popular one as in the 1940's.

Our economic situation is not good with unemployment and inflation still unacceptably too high. But the economic situation is infinitely better than in the 1930's when almost no one had a job.

The Class of 1980 can look forward to many marvels that past generations missed out on. The newest, graduating class is young enough to witness, in all likelihood, a cure for cancer and interplanetary space exploration by manned vehicles.

The energy crisis is sure to be solved in their lifetime. There will probably come a time when the use of gasoline will be considered as quaint as kerosene lamps.

There is much to look forward to. All of those things which make life worthwhile, love, religious faith, and the good feeling of having done a hard job well, lie ahead.

We congratulate the Class of 1980 and hope that it will do its part to make our world a little nicer place to live.

Your turn

Economic figures... Show some improvement

The latest economic figures released by the Southwest Florida Regional Planning Council for Hendry and Glades Counties show some encouraging improvement.

Hendry County led the region in percentage of increase in gross sales — consisting of both retail and wholesale sales — from March 1979 to March 1980.

While gross sales increased an average of 27 percent regionwide, sales in Hendry County increased 78.3 percent. Sales a year ago totaled $10 million, while this March they were up to $34 million.

Surprisingly enough, Hendry County, which has a population estimated at 17,576, trailed Charlotte County by only about $5 million in gross sales. Charlotte's population is 27,000.

ation is estimated at 55,392. A year ago, Charlotte's sales exceeded Hendry's by more than $10 million.

Gross sales in Glades County are up 23.1 percent to $2.4 million. Gross sales increased more in Glades County than in either Sarasota or Collier Counties.

Taxable sales were also up during the past year.

Hendry taxable sales increased 29.9 percent to $7.6 million. Glades taxable sales increased in March 14.8 percent to $730,840.

Regionwide, taxable sales increased an average of 21.3 percent.

The number of telephone numbers continued to increase during the past year regionwide. Hendry's increase was 8.1 percent and Glades' increase was 3.7 percent.

The regional average increase was 12 percent.

From March 1979 to March 1980, Hendry unemployment stood at 10 percent (no change). But from January 1980 to March 1980, Hendry unemployment dropped two-tenths of a percent.

Glades County unemployment showed the only increase in the region from March 1979 to March 1980 — 1.1 percent to 7.3 percent.

Glades unemployment has decreased nine-tenths of a percent since January of this year. In January, the jobless rate was 8.2 percent.

Why scrape city streets?

Dear Editor:

The city is scraping streets in Englewood Terrace that don't need scraping. This sparsely populated community is made up primarily of retirees who live in mobile homes. Except for one, Madox Street is paved. It is quiet and peaceful here with very little traffic.

Susan Avenue, a dirt street composed of the same material used on the adjoining streets, has not been scraped in seven years and is in very good condition, but for some unknown reason once or twice a month the big expensive machine and its operator scrape the other dirt streets here needlessly.

The expensive machine makes a lot of noise and dust and leaves a heap of dirt and gravel on both sides of the street.

Need I tell you what this heap does to a lawn mower blade? Not to mention the danger of flying rocks when the mower blade hits this heap.

Apparently, LaBelle does not have enough mow jobs to keep the machine and its operator busy so he spends tax payers money scraping streets that don't need it.

I suggest the big expensive machine and its operator work

Parent proud of CHS Class

Editor's note: Mrs. Robertson asked that this letter to the Class of 1980 be published as an open letter.

To the CHS Class of 1980: I cannot tell you how much you mean to me. I will miss you all so much. I pray God is with you always.

Thank you for giving me so much these last years. May 29 will always be remembered as one of the best days of my life. What a great honor you gave me that night. You gave me more than you'll ever know. The words, applause, smiles and hugs meant more than gold to me. I wanted to tell you so much in appreciation but all I could think was how much I loved you.

Watching you grow up was a joy for me. You became like my own. I worried about your grades and personal life. Some say I got too involved. Some even asked if I was trying to solve your problems. This up set me alot. I gave it much thought. If listening and making suggestions like, "talk to your parents and teachers", can be considered as such then I am guilty.

You made mistakes but you stood proud and learned from them. You're a spunky, energetic group. You are eager to experience the adult world and try all that life has to offer. You have worked harder than any group I know. You have put in your time at C.H.S. and years from now you'll laugh at things you got into trouble for. You are such beautiful, loving, trusting souls. In all of these hard times you still wanted only approval and love.

You will be my very special important people. You will be my leaders. You'll be great too. Some may achieve higher offices than others but each and every one of you are special. God made you and he doesn't waste his time.

Working at C.H.S. had only two rewards for me. The first were the students. They made going to work a pleasure. The other was getting to know the people who worked there. Mrs. G. was an example for me to follow. She was always there for us all. She was eager to help in anyway. I learned who really cared about their students and C.H.S. I've seen teachers shed tears because their students weren't responding and making passing grades. I also heard a few teachers refer to students as dummies. I felt anger at first for the latter teachers, then sympathy. Their classes will always be a chore for them. I learned a really good teacher doesn't stop at 2:55. They sponsor classes. They spend time, energy and when necessary argue with administration for the rights of their students. They and their families are the examples we all need. We have a few of these really great teachers at C.H.S. Thank God for them. They really care.

In closing let me say this to the parents of the Class of '80'. Your children are very special. Always be proud of them. My generation had a few spunky ones too. Today they run the city, county and more. They are all respected, hard-working people. I thank God and you for the privilege of knowing each one of your children.

Sincerely,
/s/ Elaine Roberts

Patient happy with care

Editor:

I was recently a patient in Hendry General Hospital, and want to express my gratitude for the really fine nursing care I received there.

My special thanks go to Dr. Forbes, Sue Cartier, Anne Spears, and especially to Mark Teasley for his excellent nursing ability and his fine attitude toward his job and the patients.

The hospital can be justly proud of having such caring and dedicated people on their staff.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Francis Benfield

The political games

Although the Russians are trumpeting claims of victory, the U.S. Olympic boycott of the Moscow Olympic Games has dealt the Soviet Union a major propaganda defeat.

Since the deadline for entering Olympic teams fell recently, 85 nations had formally accepted invitations to compete, fifty-six others had either joined the boycott or remained undecided. Unfortunately, such NATO allies as France, Belgium, and Italy will all send teams, and their presence will validate Soviet claims to international respectability again after the invasion of Afghanistan.

Some great nations and leading Olympic contenders will be conspicuously absent, however, including the United States, West Germany and Japan — the third, fourth and fifth top medal winning countries in the 1976 Montreal Games. Their absence will make the competition in South Korea.

Better than most, it seems, the Soviets understand the use of sports "as an instrument of political pressure."

kyball championships in South Korea.

Better than most, it seems, the Soviets understand the use of sports "as an instrument of political pressure."

Washington — One of the most frustrating aspects of the rules of the Congress is the ability of a handful of committee and subcommittee chairmen to keep bottled up any and all legislative proposals with which they disagree.

Any subcommittee chairman can effectively kill a proposal of which he disapproves merely by refusing to hold hearings on it. And, unless the members of that subcommittee, revolt, the wishes of the chairman prevail.

That's what has happened to S450, the Senate-passed measure to permit decisions on classroom prayer to be made at the community and state level, rather than at the national level.

Passed by the Senate some 16 months ago, the measure has been left to languish in the House Judiciary Subcommittee on the Courts.

Why? Because the leadership of the House Judiciary Committee is afraid to give the House a chance to vote on it, afraid the House would vote the wishes of the American people and strip the federal courts of the power to consider "school prayer" cases.

When the Supreme Court first decided the school prayer issue 17 years ago, an overwhelming majority of the American people thought the high court correct. They still do. A recent national poll showed 76 per cent of the American people favor prayer in school.

But the Judiciary Committee leadership apparently feels it knows better than the American people what children should be allowed to do in the classroom.

Fortunately, however, there is a mechanism by which the general membership of the House can thwart the Judiciary Committee leadership and pull this important bill from the subcommittee and schedule it for full floor debate.

This mechanism, called a discharge petition, requires the signatures of 218 of the 435 House Members. But once that number is reached, the bill is automatically brought to the floor for a vote.

So far, some 148 House members — including myself — have signed discharge petition No. 7, to pull S 450 from the House Judiciary Committee and bring it to the floor. And, almost all of those signatures came within the last week — a week which saw scores of nationally-known religious leaders and others interested in returning prayer to school gather in Washington for an inaugural National Prayer in School Week.

Hopefully, the impetus will continue and the required number of signatures will be obtained in the near future.

The question of whether children have a right to pray in school if they wish to is just too important to be ignored, to be bottled up by a small handful of elitist chairmen who feel they know better than anyone else what is good for the nation.

It is an issue which merits open discussion and opportunity for the American people, speaking through their elected representatives, to be heard.

That's why I was one of the early signers of Discharge Petition No. 7 and that's why I hope the discharge petition is successful.

If we are to return to the fundamental principles of education, preserve our basic constitutional liberties and reaffirm our moral and religious heritage, this bill must be brought to the floor, discussed and adopted.

To do otherwise is to fly in the face of our heritage.

Equally as important, however, is the need for the House membership to show, once and for all, that it will not sit idly by while important issues are held captive by a handful of committee and subcommittee chairmen.

This shameful practice cannot be condoned — and it will not be if the House asserts its rights and acts.

FEC crossing is a step closer

BELLE GLADE — The repair of a Florida East Coast Railroad crossing at Southwest Avenue E. and SR715 is a step closer, according to Canal Hazards Safety Committee Chairman Marvin Unwin.
 Unwin announced to the Belle Glade Rotary Club Tuesday in an update on Canal Hazards Committee recent actions, that the design for a left-turn lane from SR715 onto Southwest Avenue G has been approved by all the agencies interested.

The left-turn lane has been the major holdup in getting the FEC Railroad to repair the deteriorating crossing at the busy intersection. The design approval brings the repair of the crossing one step nearer reality.
 Unwin also derided recent reports that the State Department of Transportation (DOT) was dragging its heels in cutting down trees along

Four Raider coaches named All-Area

BELLE GLADE — State Champion shooter Sheila Nix of Glades Central High School's girls' track team was named Area Athlete of the Year in the girls' division and four Glades Central coaches were named Area Coaches of the Year in their respective sports.
 Glades Central Athletic Director Graham Frost said Tuesday he had learned that morning that coaches from all the schools in Palm Beach, Martin, St. Lucie, Okeechobee, Hendry and Glades Counties had named Nix and boys and girls track coaches Willie McDonald and Jay Seider on Monday night.
 Seider and McDonald joined football coach Ben McCoy and girls basketball coach Steve Cohen in being named coach of the year in their sports.
 The four had earlier been named Suncoast Conference West Coaches of the Year.
 Miss Nix won her title after she had been named to the All-Conference girls' track team, an honor which came after she finished number one in the state, at the state track meet in Winter Park, in the 400-meter race, when she heaved the ball 44' 1/2", four inches short of setting a new state record.
 Miss Nix is the second girl in two years from Glades Central who has been named the feminine Area Athlete of the Year. Star basketball player Joy Burroughs won the honor last year, when her half-brother, Charles Jones of Martin County, won the same title as boys' Area Athlete of the Year.
 Frost noted that 41 Glades Central athletes have been named to various All-Conference teams in respective sports, including two who earned the title twice in two different sports for a total of 43 All-Conference positions held this year by Raiders.

the city marina but, at the advice of City Attorney Baker, said the teacher should also submit his idea to the South Florida Water Management District, which now owns the property on Torrey Island.
 Curious told the commissioners he would like to install a portable unit at the marina to use as a laboratory and a classroom during inclement weather. The purpose of the classes would be to teach high school students, and younger students later, about Lake Okeechobee, discussing the lake's biological, economic and environmental impact on the area.

The recommendations are the result of a study performed by the engineering firm which was brought on at the request of action by a women's civic club.
 One recommendation which has already been taken was the installation of a school crossing guard at Eighth Street.
 • Discussed a series of complaints about the way the Lake Side Country Club is being operated with operator John Vayalis. At the commissioners' request, Vayalis said he would begin re-opening the country club on Saturdays and Sundays to serve coffee at least.
 One of the complaints was that the club wasn't serving breakfast on weekends but Vayalis said it would cost him too much to have three employees open the club to serve a half-dozen customers.
 The commissioners also agreed to have the club repaired.

no unsatisfactory rating, 11 satisfactory ratings and 10 improvement-needed ratings.

Redding said this interim evaluation was to indicate the deficiencies to be corrected by the time of the final evaluation which would be May-June 1980.

Mrs. Meadows said she disagreed with the evaluation contents and signed it as such.

At a meeting at Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church Tuesday evening more than 100 Meadows' supporters gathered to assess Monday's school board meeting.

Rev. West told the group Mills has tentatively scheduled to meet with the Concerned Citizens for an Honorable and Peaceful Solution on June 11.

He urged as many parents, civic leaders and concerned citizens as possible to attend the June 11 meeting.

Rev. West said what has happened is that Redding in two months has found former West Area Superintendent Berryman "incompetent."

"If Berryman can give Mrs. Meadows a satisfactory evaluation two and half years with no major problems, and Redding in two months can find nothing right with Mrs. Meadows' administrative abilities, then Berryman should be replaced, not Meadows," Rev. Wood said.

"Mrs. Meadows is taking a rap Berryman made by taking," he added.
 Ms. Henrietta Allen, a parent with two students at East Lake Middle School said she is a constant visitor at East Lake Middle School and has never encountered the ill-kept ground problems.

"I spoke with Superintendent Redding recently and I told him I thought Mrs. Meadows was doing a fine job at East Lake Middle School."

"My girls are on the honor roll, and many parents in the community have commented on the quality education that is being given at East Lake," said Ms.

Allen.

"Mr. Redding told me quality education was going on at East Lake but it was not the result of Mrs. Meadows, and that I was not an inspector," Allen added.

Loran Barnes, a former student of the old East Lake High School, with sons at the school, said he has often visited East Lake Middle School and he has never seen the ill-kept grounds.

James Clevan, head custodian at the school for over 10 years said the ill-kept grounds story is "lie."

"Until recently East Lake Middle School was an open school with no fences," said Clevan.

"East Lake is in the middle of the ghetto and with apartments on both sides. What other school in Palm Beach County is faced with entrances like East Lake?" Clevan asked.

"For the past ten years I have gotten all A's on my reports, and I will put it (the report) against Pahokee High's any day," he said.

Staff members also said the problems of the "dirty, filthy lounge" is not true.

A staff member who requested her name not be used said new furnishings have been added, and often she keeps the lounge clean herself.

The group also expressed concern that the root of the problems lie with several teachers and an administrator who refuses to take orders from a black administrator.

Rev. West said it has been voiced to him, Redding seeks to replace Meadows with a very close friend of his.

"However we will not stand still, until Mrs. Meadows has been reinstated back at East Lake Middle School," he said.

Schrimsher has been quoted as saying, "She (Meadows) will not get her job back, unless the court gives it to her," said Rev. West.

 If that's the case, if the school board wants to carelessly use taxpayer money, we shall see them in court," West added.

LABELLE RUNNING BACK, No. 42, eludes a Glades Day School Gator to pick up yardage during a spring football jamboree last week. The Cowboys lost

Gators win twice

BELLE GLADE — The Glades Day School football team came out on top of a spring jamboree the Gators hosted Thursday, May 29, winning overtime quarters against LaBelle and Moore Haven, both by scores of 6-0.

Both the other two quarters were won at the expense of the luckless Lake Placid Dragons, the first when Moore Haven won in overtime by a score of 14-12 and the second in the third quarter when the LaBelle Cowboys bested the Dragons, 12-8 in the only quarter that didn't go into overtime.

In the second quarter, Glades Day kicked off to LaBelle and the Gators got a break four plays later when Cowboy punter bobbled the hike from center and was tackled on his own 19 yard line.

The Cowboys hung tough on defense though. Gator Julio Silva lost ground on the first play when he was tackled on the 28 yard line. Todd Humphrey ran the ball back to the 23 and a pass from Nacho Bueno to Greg Chancey bounced out of LaBelle's hands on the goal line. A fourth down run by Jason Shelton failed to pick up enough yardage for the first down and the ball went over on the LaBelle nine yard line.

LaBelle chewed up the clock after that, picking up three first downs on running plays before a fumble on the LaBelle 41 yard line with little more than a minute left on the clock and both teams still scoreless. The Gators gained ground on only one of the next four plays, however, when Bueno ran for LaBelle 42 to the 36 after losing a yard in a previous keeper. There was no gain on third down and Bueno lost two yards on fourth down, turning the ball over to the Cowboys with 43 seconds left on the clock.

The Cowboys' ball control game had only allowed the Gators possession of the ball for eight plays during regular time in the quarter.

In overtime, however, the Cowboys continued their scoreless ways while the Gators, given their chance with the ball on the ten yard line, advanced to the one on first down when Jason Shelton carried around the left end and the Gators scored one play later when Bueno went over on a quarterback keeper.

The Gators won the quarter, 6-0. In the final quarter, Moore Haven started the action by kicking off to Glades Day and the Gators were only able to advance the ball from their 25 to their 40 before punting out to the Moore Haven 40 on a short kick.

A Terrier pass play from Vincent Lewis promptly put the ball back on the Glades Day 24 but the Terriers' first down was followed by four more downs that failed to yield another 10 yards and the ball was turned over to the Gators on their own 27.

On the following first down, Jason Shelton almost went all the way but his scoring attempt was turned into a 38 yard run when he was dragged down on the Moore Haven 35. Three plays later, Terrier defender Crennan Thompson intercepted a Nacho Bueno pass on the Moore Haven 30 yard line to end the Gator threat.

Taking to the air, the Terriers went yards in two pass plays but a penalty sent them from the Gator 20 to their own 47. They turned the ball over on downs three plays later at the Gator 42 yard line with 2:52 remaining.

Glades Day had the ball for another four downs and Moore Haven had it for another two plays before the regular time ended.

In overtime, Bueno again called on Jason Shelton, who carried the ball to paydirt on the first play from the 10 yard line but another run by Shelton from the three was stopped by the Terriers and the Gators led, 6-0.

Given their chance, the Terriers were unable to score on two running plays by Crennan Thompson a pass by Lewis and a halfback pass to Lewis, giving the Gators their second win of the night.

Old Masters Of Swimming Most people learn to swim when they are children. Nellie Brown of Alexandria, Va., didn't learn until she was 68. Now in her 80s, and enjoying the best of health, Nellie attributes her fitness to Masters Swimming. She is one of over 100,000 Americans who are involved in Masters Swimming, a program of physical fitness and competition for men and women over 25. Masters swimmers come from every walk of life and many of them never swim competitively before. Studies have shown that swimming seems to slow down the aging process. Dr. Herbert DeVries of the University of Southern California's Andrus Gerontology Center found that people, aged 50 to 87, who were given hour-long work-out three times a week for six weeks, had profound physical improvement.

Can't sleep? Try snook fishing

By Lorne Radcott
Last week while finding out exactly what are the hours of Clewiston Lock operation, a gentleman asked if he could fish at night. He was advised he could fish all he wanted to after dark but if he came to the Locks after 9 p.m. he could expect to have a wait until 5:30 a.m. the next day before he could get back inside.

So if you want to fish the Lake after 9 p.m. then you had better plan on spending the entire night on the Lake or using the temporary ramps on the Lakeside of the levee to put your boat in and out. This didn't sit too well with the gentlemen inquiring as he so stated.

At this particular time of year and moon phase there is an alternative. If you want to fish at night and not have ramping problems or if you have insomnia consider fishing for Snook at the Ortona Locks about one mile north of Highway 80 approximately 21 miles west of Clewiston and 11 miles east of LaBelle.

The current created in "dumping" water westward in the Calasoochatchee River at Ortona Locks yearly draws the Snook from the Gulf and for the next four to six weeks makes it a real "Snook Hole". Recent reports indicate that Snook are being caught consistently and is a ideal situation for (1) the avid night fisherman and (2) the insomniac, as the area fishermen state the best time to fish is from midnight to 5 a.m.

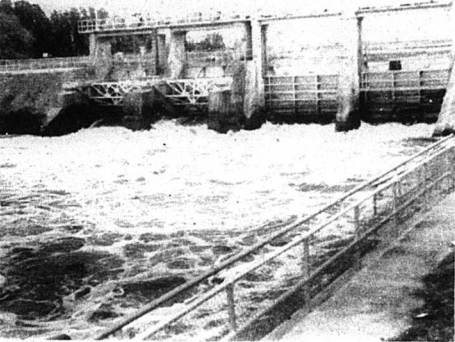

The best producing herd right now is a Buttonhead Jig with a Red slash across the head mounted on a Yellow Bucktail body with a 2.0 hook. Try it. You might like it. More importantly, the snook might like it better, which is the name of the game. Two suggestions: retrieve the lure at top reel speed and take some insect repellent. Oh yes, and GOOD LUCK!

As to getting to this "Hot Spot" come East from LaBelle or West from Clewiston on Highway 80 and you will see the Corps of Engineers sign at the mileages previously indicated. Turn north and proceed one mile (25 per hour speed limit) where the road makes a sharp right turn and within the next 100 yards or so is an ample parking area right above the river and only about 100 feet from the steps that lead you down to a very safe concrete fishing walkway which is fenced in a manner that will allow you to cast your jig to the base of the spillway without the possibility of taking a tumble. Remember the "fast" retrieve. First, the snook prefer it and second there are - er - some obstructions on the riverbed that can snatch a lure from you as quick, or quicker, than a snook can.

A few hundred yards west of the spillway is a "feeder" canal that comes in from the south side and the area adjacent to it can provide lively action.

Many Fishermen fish live shiners from this vantage point and catch not only snook but some "braggin" slabs and snook catfish. You'll be surprised if you hang a tarpon.

LOOKING into the foot of the spillway from the fishing catwalk.

They have surprised more than one snook fisherman. If you are one of the fortunate ones and hang and land tarpon, unless you plan to have it mounted, take all possible care in releasing it to give a future Fisherman the same thrill it gave you. The late night system works. I know from experience. BUT DON'T FORGET THE INSECT REPELLANT!

Summer Camp
The annual summer sessions of the Everglades Youth Camp sponsored by the Florida Game & Fresh Water Fish Commission and located in the J.W. Corbett Wildlife Management Area will commence on June 15 and run for eight weeks. These are weekly Camps and are for Boys and Girls age 8 through 14. The cost is $60 per week which includes board and lodging and area residents can get all pertinent information by calling the following toll free 1-800-432-2046.

Activities include instruction on canoeing, swimming, basics of fishing, wildlife identification and edible plant identification. There will be evening campfires and entertainment and there is also the old swimmer's hole. An excellent opportunity for children, with good lodging, meals, counseling and instruction. The all inclusive price is pretty good also.

According to Maj. Lou Gainey of the Commission, this year a new approach is being used in that active, experienced outdoorsmen are being recruited as counselors and instructors. This is a real opportunity for youngsters with an "outdoor" bent.

Area fishing report

From Belle Glade, Lewis-ton, Moore Haven and Buckhead Ridge we get the news that the bass are there! The Fishermen aren't! For those who want to catch bass the word is "get out early!" The hours of 6 to about 9:30 a.m. are when the fish are feeding actively. During the heat of the day the only thing you can be sure of is sunburn. Again in the late afternoon until early evening the fish become active once more.

We learn at Angler's Marina in Clewiston that is mostly the fishermen who are on the slow side. But get out early for bass. The water depths of five to six feet in the lake from Marker 98 of water to Marker 92 will produce.

Yeastling bass have started to show up in the Rim Canal and at Cochrane Pass in the channel. Dick Vance says Blackhead Ridge with black grappe with a charrhouse tail have been best this past few days.

Bluegill are going for the crickets in the Rim Canal and at the spoil bank islands adjacent to the main channel. Start at No. 10 Marker and work out along the channel edges.

Uncle Joe's at Moore Haven report that are being caught in Mayaguez Cut, the lake edge adjacent to it and also in the Rim Canal. Bass to 7 pounds have been taken in the latter.

Black grappe worms have been the most popular and live shiners have also taken fish. Early and late is best.

Bluegills are taking crickets very well in the Rim Canal and as far West as the Monkey Boat. Popping bugs have also produced well on the Gills. At J. Mark Camp in Belle Glade, Mike tells us that the high winds have put a damper on any real activity but those who have fished the channel edges at dusk off are getting bass. Here crank baits such as the bomber pattern BAIT have been real popular. Bluegill are taking crickets, worms and small spinner baits in the Rim Canal. They are running to good size and are plentiful.

Buckhead Ridge Marina says the wind has been a problem there also but the Tin Horse Cove area is producing bass on black or purple plastic worms in four to six feet of water. Bass in excess of four pounds are being caught.

In the canal directly outside the lock at Buckhead, Bluegill are responding well to crickets, worms and for the flyrod, popping bugs. Size 8 or 10 is a good choice.

No evidence of shinerslackers at the moment. Waters muddied by high winds may be one reason. Higher levels could be another. Whatever the reason, we shall endeavor to find the answer and report it. If you have any questions or comments please let us know. We would appreciate it.

Everglades Federal S&L opens new Gardens branch

Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association officially opened its Palm Beach Gardens office Friday.

Cutting the ribbon were Mayor Dick Peeney of Royal Palm Beach and Charles B. Trammell, Jr., president of Everglades Federal. Over 200 people attended the celebration.

The new office building located at Military Trail and PGA Boulevard will offer full mortgage lending and savings services including safe deposit box rentals. The office also has two drive-in teller locations to better serve its customers.

The more than $500,000 building with approximately 6,000 square feet will offer office rentals on the second floor and off street parking.

Architect for the new branch office was Theodore Davis, AIA, contractor, Shannon Ginn and Interiors. Robert Shaw and Associates.

Fred Moates, branch manager, will operate the new Everglades Federal Office in Palm Beach Gardens along with a staff of three.

The building and decor bring the feeling of old Palm Beach County to the customers of the Palm Beach Gardens area.

Interiors include antiques, oak floors, a uniquely designed teller line with old frosted glass windows.

Everglades Federal enjoys a distinction of being Palm Beach County's oldest savings and loan association. Founded in 1933, the association holds one of the earliest charters, the eighth in the state, 47th in the nation with over 4,700 savings and loan associations in the United States.

The concept of the Federal Savings and Loan came into being in the early thirties to help a financially troubled nation recover from "the Great Depression." The communities in western Palm Beach County were not only recovering from the depression, but a succession of two great hurricanes which disastrously hit the communities around Lake Okechobee.

The Federal Savings and Loan Association was a perfect solution for them. It provided a way for people to form a financial association in their community where money could be saved safely and

Banquet ends season for women bowlers

BELLE GLADE — The Wednesday Women's Bowling League culminated its bowling season with a banquet at the Holiday Inn last Thursday in honor of the Road Runners, the first place team finishers in the league.

The league, comprised of teams from Clewiston, Pahokee and Belle Glade, have met each Wednesday since September at the Triangle Bowling Lanes.

Twenty-two members of the league attended the buffet luncheon and awards ceremony.

Mrs. Toby Carver, Mrs. Wally Sheely and Mrs. Betty Jackson, members of the Road Runner team, sponsored by Quality Mobile Home Repair of Clewiston, each received individual trophies. Jack Jackson, owner of the mobile home repair shop received the sponsor's trophy.

Trocadero Steak House and Lounge of Clewiston finished second, and team members Glenda Texton, Nell McLean, and Cathy Belcher also received trophies at the luncheon.

Rounding out the top three teams was Hortman Spreader Service of Belle Glade. Joan Ramsey, Ethel Hortman and June Lemon received third place trophies.

Eighteen-month old Tabitha Jones, the daughter of Ms. Sherry Jones of Clewiston, received a trophy for perfect attendance at all of the Wednesday bowling games.

Other teams and individual winners in the league were:

- Team Series: Sherry's Flowers first place with 1859 points; Hortman Spreader Service second with 1845 points; and Alcoma third place with 1845 points.

- Team Game: Trocadero Steak House and Lounge first place with 680 points; Alcoma second with 656 points; Hortman Spreader Service third with 651.

- Individual Series: Lenora Westberry first place with 700 points; Joan Ramsey second with 699 points and Debby Norton third with 680 points.

- Individual Game: Karol Endicott first place with 264 points; Ruby C. and Ginna Faye Lee tied for second with 258; Glenda Texton third with 255.

- Most Improved: Ginna Faye Lee, first with 12 pins over average and Debby Norton, second place with 11 pins over average.

South Bay protests state annexation bill

SOUTH BAY — The City Commission decided Tuesday night to support a Riviera Beach position on two annexation bills currently being deliberated in the state senate but took the opposite tack on a third bill.

The commission at first seemed in agreement with Riviera Beach on all three bills, but when it was pointed out that one of the bills, S-889, would automatically annex certain property in some cities, although it wouldn't affect South Bay at the present time, the commissioners decided to go on record opposing the bill.

One of the two bills the city supported simply eliminates a requirement that four notices be published before the annexation can take place. The other eliminates the need for a referendum within the city after the city commission passes an ordinance, while still calling for a referendum by the people living in the area to be annexed.

Mayor Don Tanner said he had no problem with those two bills but said he feels strongly that the people within a given area to be annexed should have the right to say whether they should be annexed.

The commissioners, after Commissioner Vernia Cox had moved to write legislators approving all three bills and Commissioner Ray Sullivan had seconded the motion, seemed in favor of all the bills.

But when it was pointed out that the first bill, which would automatically annex an enclave, defined as an unincorporated area surrounded by a city, or sided on three sides by the municipality and by a body of water on the fourth side, without benefit of a referendum of anyone involved or of an ordinance by the city commission, Tanner said he would be opposed to that bill.

When the mayor polled the other four commissioners, Sullivan said he was still in favor of all three bills and Mrs. Cox said she was also in favor as long as S-889 didn't directly affect South Bay.

Tanner had already expressed his opposition, however, and Commissioners Sammy Rogers and Refugio "Pancho" Garcia said they were opposed to S-889.

Mrs. Cox withdrew her motion and Rogers made a new motion to go on record supporting two of the bills but to also go on record opposing S-889. Garcia seconded the motion and it passed unanimously.

While it wouldn't affect South Bay, would, if it is adopted by the legislature and signed into law, directly affect Belle Glade by automatically annexing a large amount of property owned by several people, including a partial ownership by the county, located south of Sugar Subdivision and east of SR15.

That property includes SR 715 Trailer Park and a large lot recently purchased by the county to be used as a regional park.

In other business, the commission adopted on first reading an ordinance regulating yard and garage sales. The ordinance, patterned after the similar ordinance adopted recently by Belle Glade, would limit yard and garage sales to individuals and to no more than two days out of each 90 days.

2 events raise $10,000 for arthritis foundation

Glades area volunteers raised more than $10,000 for the Florida Arthritis Foundation in two weekend fund-raisers.

In a nine-hour Skate-a-thon Saturday held at Glades Skate-world, skaters turned in more than $3,000. An added $1,000 was raised Sunday during a nine-hour phone-a-thon, conducted by community organizations.

According to Barbara Clark, who served as chairman of the two events, the money donated will go toward the support of two free arthritis clinics in West Palm Beach which now serve more than 20 Glades area residents. The clinics are located at Good Samaritan and J.F. Kennedy hospitals.

Sites for the phone-a-thon were provided by the Bank of Falmolee, including the Belle Glade branch, and the First Bank of Clewiston.

Skaters were awarded prizes for bringing in the largest amounts of pledges with Dana Simmons as the grand prize winner of a television set for raising $414.

Second place winners were James Moss with $245 and Loren Olsen, $203, who received $20 gift certificates from Royal's Department Stores. Gift certificates valued at $10 at Royal's went to Denny Maynor, Wayne Corbin, Stephanie Cavine, Mark Burch and Van White, for bringing in pledges of more than $100.

Trophies were also presented for highest pledges according to age. In the six-year-and-under age group, trophy for first place went to Stephanie Cavine, 5, and second place, Doug Corbin, 4. In the 7-12 division, James Moss, first, and Loren Olsen, second and 13 and over, James Rodgers, first, and Diane Stevens, second.

Skaters bringing in donations of $25 or more received T-shirts.

10-year-old drowned in drainage canal

BELLE GLADE — A 10-year-old boy accidentally drowned in a drainage canal east of SR 715 and north of Osceola Center while swimming in the ten-foot deep water Thursday afternoon with three playmates.

Detective Bill Brown of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office Glades Detachment said Eric Jones, son of Shirley Ann Pourch of 112 Osceola Center, was recovered from the newly-dredged canal by deputy sheriffs.

"I think the canal was deeper than they (the four children) thought it was," Brown said. "The Jones boy apparently got into trouble when he attempted to climb the bank and kept slipping back down."

Belle Glade pays tribute to
A beloved physician

By AILSA DEWING

When Dr. S. J. Simmons and Jessie Simmons arrived in Belle Glade in 1933, Pahokee was bigger than Belle Glade. The nearest hospital was in West Palm Beach. And a doctor's routine day included anything and everything from performing a gall bladder operation to snakebite treatment.

It was a time before blood transfusions and penicillin and a country doctor set bones "by guesswork" because he had no X-ray machine.

"We've gone many, many miles," says Dr. Simmons, who at 78 still keeps office hours and can look back on 50 years of practice.

The "we" includes Jessie Simmons who's worked side-by-side with her husband as a nurse who married a doctor.

"I was going to be a lady," she says with a chuckle.

The two met at the Tampa Municipal Hospital where Dr. Simmons was interning after graduating from the University of Florida and Tulane University medical school.

Mrs. Simmons was in the nurses training program.

After their marriage they headed for Moore Haven and Clewiston where the doctor had gotten a job with U.S. Sugar that paid $200 a month. Their house calls ranged from South Bay to Moore Haven to Liberty Point — anywhere there was a sugar company labor camp.

"I could write a book," says Jessie Simmons who recalls nights spent with patients "way out in the woods where there were no lights and we had to improvise everything."

The move to Belle Glade was a move into private practice.

"There were two other doctors here then — Dr. William Buck and Dr. Wilfred White — and we all helped each other," says Dr. Simmons.

One method of helping another doctor was to serve as the anesthetist, administering ether by dropping it on a mask over the patient's face.

Surgery was performed in the doctors' offices and appendectomies, tonsilectomies and gall bladder operations were scheduled as part of Dr. Simmons' daily routine.

"We didn't have appointments then," says the doctor.

By 1934 the Simmonses decided to open a hospital, converting a small store located where the Florida First National Bank now stands into a hospital that could serve four patients easily but as many as seven when necessary.

Office hours ran for as long as there were patients.

"We'd come home for lunch and supper and then go back to work."

"One night we decided to go to the movies in Pahokee," Mrs. Simmons relates. "We got as far as the bridge when somebody stopped us and said, 'Please don't go out of town, my wife's just going into labor.'"

"I was so disappointed but the doctor said, 'We don't work for ourselves. We work for other people.'"

One of the modern machines the Simmons' hospital boasted in time was an X-ray machine — the second one in the Glades. "I bought a used one," says Dr.

Simmons.

"We also had the first EKG and I was sending mothers home with their babies after four days when everyone else was still keeping them in bed a week."

After two years, the Simmonses had to close the hospital.

"It went broke," they explain. "There was no money. Nobody had any money in those days. Everybody was out of work."

In 1940 the Simmonses moved into their new home on SW Avenue B, a tree-shaded street of homes and gardens, Mrs. Simmons recalls. Today the house is one of two left on the downtown commercial block.

In 1942 Dr. Simmons was called up and he served four years in the Navy, his second time in the service. During World War One he'd served as a seaman for nine months before he was discharged when it was discovered he was underage.

When he returned in 1946, Dr. Simmons set up his practice in "the Western Auto building" — the one that was behind Lutz's pharmacy.

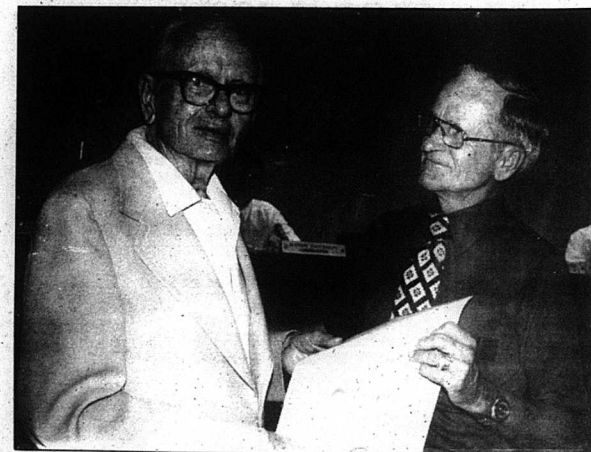

Only later did he move into the office in the house on Avenue B, where he still sees patients despite a coronary last November that has slowed him down.

Also in those years, the Simmonses raised two children: a son, S. J., the third, now a cardiologist, and a daughter, Yvonne, who is a registered nurse.

On June 7, a grateful community will pay tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Simmons for their years of dedicated service to the citizens of Belle Glade.

Their experiences would indeed fill a book but they are still too busy serving and working to find the time to write it.

Mayor W. Ralph Kirk, right, presents a copy of the proclamation to Dr. Simmons

Dr. S. J. and Jessie Simmons

The process of moving can easily turn a peaceful family into the Hatfields and the McCoy's in no time flat.

After quite a few years of living in the same place, we are in the process of moving. Granted, we ain't movin' far, just across the street, but still and all, there are still the same things to do just as if we were movin' to Ohio.

I ask for boxes to load things in and he brings home celery crates. Hairpins and face cream easily slide through the cracks of celery crates, Dear.

We decide that we will jointly sort through the main hallway closet and I soon realize that was a major mistake. The grumbling starts shortly. Why do I have so many clothes? Is it really necessary to have six purses, all blue? Look at this old book stuffed with dead flowers. Why are you keeping that? Because dear those are the first flowers you ever sent me, and yes, it is necessary to keep them all.

Somewhere along the way we come across the kids' baby things and he wants to know why I keep their first everything, first lock of hair, first shoes, first tooth, etc. I begin to wonder if he really has a heart. Why, I'd rather part with my winter long-johns than give up even one baby bootie.

We shift to the other side of the closet and come across some of his junk. I repeat junk. A hunting jacket that smells like a dead deer. The smell, he informs me, is deer scent to attract deer. Ugh! He wouldn't even attract a sick skunk with that odor.

Then there is the assortment of canned Army rations that he is saving for a wilderness outing or hard times, whichever comes first. I suggest we open the canned apricots for dinner, they sound good. He informs me we haven't hit hard times yet, wait until the canned liver sounds good and then we'll eat the apricots.

By the time we finish the closet we are barely speaking and we have a pile of his, hers and maybes. The maybes will be sorted through again I'm sure.

Moving day arrives and nothin' doing but we handle everything ourselves. No outside help. Why bother anyone when we are two able-bodied adults? So we move the china cabinet in two parts all by ourselves and he hauls the dining room table practically out from under me while I am trying to eat. Wonder if he is trying to tell me something?

We get almost everything moved and I start cleaning floors, sweeping the walls, and scrubbing the woodwork.

He thinks I'm crazy. Why am I cleaning so hard on the house we are movin' out of? Well, that's just the way my ma taught me. You never leave a mess for the next resident to clean up and shake their head and say that a rotten housekeeper you were to all the neighbors. It just ain't done.

I hope I don't have to move again any time soon. I am exhausted and I still have to sift through all those maybes.

Keeping the Faith

BY THE REV. JOE ED MCGRAHY
Community United Methodist Church

"Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into the sky? This Jesus, who has been taken up from you into heaven, will come in just the same way as you have watched Him go into heaven."

Acts 1:11 (NASB)

The Book of Acts marks a new transition in God's ministry to man. There was the ministry of God to the Family of Abraham, as He raised a people up unto Himself - the Jews, who became a large number in Egypt. Then God brought them up out of Egypt and to the Promise Land. On the way, Moses, (God's appointed leader), brought the Jews to the foot of Mt. Sinai, where God gave to His people the law.

Finally the time came when God sent His only begotten Son - Jesus the Messiah into the world. He was born into the Jewish Nation, but came to bring Salvation to all people. Therefore, when His work was finished on the Cross (where He became the Perfect Sacrifice for our sins), He was laid in a grave. On that first Easter, He rose from the dead to give all who would accept His salvation, the assurance of eternal life.

Our text takes place 40 days later when Jesus ascended into Heaven. Before His death and again after the Ascension, Jesus put great emphasis upon the coming of the Holy Spirit in a new way. Before the crucifixion Jesus said, "But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My Name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all that I have said unto you." (John 14:26 NASB) And again He said, "But I tell you the truth, it is to your advantage that I go away; for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you; but if I go, I will send Him to you." (John 16:7 NASB).

Then just before Jesus ascended into heaven, "He commanded them not to leave Jerusalem, but to wait for what the Father had promised, which you have heard from Me, for John baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit not many days from now." Then Jesus went on to say, "... you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be My witnesses ..." (Acts 1:5,8 NASB).

Pentecost (a Jewish feast day) came, and the Holy Spirit came. It came with power. He (the Holy Spirit) came to empower and send forth. On that first day nearly 3000 people came to know Jesus as Savior because of the witness the Holy Spirit gave of Jesus through the disciples.

Sometimes the Book of Acts is called the Gospel or Good News of the Holy Spirit. That is; it is the story of how God's Spirit in the Name of Jesus Christ brought the church into being and worked through it to spread the Good News of Jesus Christ out across the world. For the real ministry of God's Spirit is to make Jesus real to the world. He is God's Presence (the Holy Spirit) that brings life into the Church and into the individual Christian.

We must be open to thus receive His Presence into us.

IN RECOGNITION of her 11 years of service and devotion to Christian Day School, Sarah Plunkett, one of the school's founders, was presented with an engraved tray. The presentation was made by Arvine Bell, left, principal.

Some economists predict we're heading into a depression. That's a state of affairs where the things you want to buy cost more than the money you have to buy them with.

For a lot of us that's nothing new or different. It's the story of our lives. Apparently there just wasn't enough of us to get their attention.

Then there's inflation. That's when people have more money to spend than what they can get for it. There's a lot of that going around too. Nothing we can buy these days seems to be worth the money we've paid for it.

These days it's hard enough coping with the situation without trying to understand it too. When you can't buy something because it costs too much it's academic what you call it. They used to call it "doing without" and it was a virtue. But that was before Mastercharge.

Back in the '30s the staples were beans, rice, sardines, codfish and cottage cheese. Or grunts, grits and greens in the South. But nowadays even the staples cost too much to be depression foods.

During the wartime '40s we learned how to do without sugar, meat and butter. And we still are. Or else, just about the time we can afford them the doctor puts them on the no-no list.

Reminds me of the man I met once who said the Great Depression had left its mark on him as a boy. For the rest of his life he had a great fear of starving to death.

At the time I met him he was on a restricted diet - low cholesterol and salt-free. No eggs, butter, pork, and so on.

And his wife was a diabetic, he said. So they never ate starches or sweets.

And his mother-in-law lived with them and she was a vegetarian.

The more things change the more they stay the same. The state seems to remain quo whether we call it depression, inflation, war or indigestion.

REFLECTIONS

Strange how a landscape sets the imagination to work. Right now, looking at this scene, I can imagine all sorts of things.

Winged steeds riding to heavy music... pioneers in the wilderness... castles on the cliffs... boating at high speeds.

Look at the magic that enables the lake to mirror the rocky mountain peak and the heavens! The vastness and stillness of the scene sets my mind to wondering about time and space and things I will never understand.

But in standing here and wondering so, I feel like I've been near God.

There is a place where I can find Him always - in Church. Will you come with me?

Gospel concert Sunday

PAHOKEE - The Chuck Miller Family and The Peacemakers, two popular gospel music groups, will be featured in a concert Sunday at the Prince Theatre.

There is no admission charge to the 7:30 p.m. concert being sponsored jointly by the Fishers of Men Fellowship Club of the Palmetto Church of God and Glades Area businessmen.

Weddings

Hyatt - Jaume

The wedding of Natalie Ann Hyatt to Danny A. Jaume will be held at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, June 14, at the Prince Theatre of Church of Pahokey with the Rev. Guthrie Colvard officiating.

Invitations are not being sent locally. Friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend the ceremony and the reception immediately following in the church fellowship hall.

Flynn-Caponigri

SOUTH BAY - Word has been received of the marriage of Thomas Vincent Flynn, son of Thomas City Manager and Mrs. John G. Flynn, now residing in Tallahassee.

Flynn is a graduate of Notre Dame and will enter the law school in the fall.

Asthmatics and exercise

During exercise, most children and adults who have asthma show significant changes in lung function. But avoiding all exercise usually is unnecessary.

The airways of asthmatics may adapt normally to exercise for as long as five or ten minutes, says Peyton A. Eggleston, MD. After they stop exercising, asthmatics can develop symptoms of wheezing, coughing, chest tightness, and congestion. If some exercises last longer than five or ten minutes, the symptoms can develop suddenly.

In a study with 11 asthmatic children, Dr. Eggleston found that more than two-thirds ranked exercise as one of the three most important causes of their episodes of asthma.

The other two most mentioned causes were infection and weather changes.

Dr. Eggleston - associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Virginia School of Medicine - is a member of the American Thoracic Society, the medical section of the American Lung Association.

A number of researchers have shown that exercise-induced asthma can be prevented when the asthmatic runs while breathing air that is at body temperature and fully saturated with moisture. This was shown in a laboratory where the moisture was produced from sterile or purified water.

The south Florida asthmatic must not assume that humid and moisture filled atmosphere air is also beneficial for them. Florida air, which is frequently saturated with moisture (humidity or fog), is also saturated with pollen, dust, and pollution to which the asthmatic may be allergic; therefore, they may receive an overdose of allergens.

CREDIT PROBLEMS?

If your loan application to purchase a new or used car was turned down by the bank or other lending institution, the Stewart's may have good news for you. For a limited time, we have over $200 million dollars available for auto loans. Credit requirements are more liberal than what you've probably experienced. Terms are longer and no down payment is necessary. Interest is well below prime - lending rates charged by most banks. Call now and drive home today in a new Pontiac, Toyota, Mazda, Fiat or Peugeot. Call for an appointment or come in. Ask for Mr. Francis Special Fund Finance Manager.
